Acupuncture Clinic Regina - Therapy using magnets and the magnetic field that surrounds living things is a form of alternative or complementary medicine. Otherwise known as magnotherapy, magnet therapy or magneto-therapy, permanent static magnets or electromagnetic devices are placed onto the bodies of customer by practitioners.

Different health benefits are purported by magnetic therapy advocates. Even if there is no scientific evidence to back these claims, some of the supposed benefits include accelerated healing of wounds, increased vitality and increased energy. Some practitioners believe that various health benefits could be attained based on where the magnet is positioned on the body.

Several advocates and practitioners believe that individuals who forgo using magnets may be subjected to an avoidable feeling of discomfort, illness and unease, or that non users are more prone to suffer from malaise. These practitioners define malaise as "Magnetic Field Deficiency Syndrome," nonetheless; many professionals deny the validity of this condition. Numerous medical doctors and health experts absolutely deny the benefits of magnetic therapy all together.

Magnetic therapy is believed to increase overall health benefits by working with and improving the circulatory system. The blood protein that carries oxygen is called hemoglobin and it is weakly diamagnetic. This means that hemoglobin could create a magnetic field in opposition to a magnetic field used externally. However, it is said that the magnets that are utilized in products related and in magnetic therapy are very weak to have any affect at all on the circulatory system or the blood flow inside the body.

There are lots of people who undergo or practice therapy, although there is little to no evidence supporting this form of therapy. Various individuals claim that magnetic therapy works by way of a placebo effect, meaning people who participate in magnetic therapy simply feel happier, healthier and stronger for the reason that they have been told that the particular therapy will provide them with health benefits.

Almost the entire business is based on the sale of products to which the customer can wear. There are a lot of magnetic products existing. Products consist of everything from magnetic mattresses, water which has been magnetized, blankets woven with magnetic materials, magnetic straps which are designed to fit around the midsection, ankles and wrists; magnetic shoe insoles as well as different types of magnetic jewelry, specially bracelets.
